Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Dr. Price's, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

There is no alum nor phosphate in

WASHINGTON'S FINAL NOTE

Wilson Charges Germany In Sixty-Five Counts of Violated Pledges.

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson Saturday completed a preliminary draft of the new note to Germany. It was immediately sent to Secretary Lansing, who will put it in formal shape and submit it to the president Sunday morning. While writing the tentative text, President Wilson had before him all the evidence in the submarine cases.

It was said the president has discussed with Mr. Lansing his desire to throw upon Germany the responsibility for any untoward result of the note, should there be any, such as severing diplomatic relations and that the main difficulty in writing the note lay in the choice of words to accomplish this end.

The note is intended to be America's last work in the submarine controversy.

After Mr. Lansing has incorporated into it all the legal points and evidence that the president did not emphasize in his tentative draft, Mr. Wilson will revise it finally and then read it to his cabinet and to the chairman of the house and senate foreign committees. It is likely the note will be on its way not later than Monday.

Germany will be accused in sixty-five counts of violating the laws of humanity and pledges to the United States in the submarine war on commerce ships.

Wage and Date Making

The public can not strike yet in the pending controversy between all the American railways and their train service employees, the American public, the real first party in interest has no direct voice. There are immunities of Federal and state laws and regulations, controlling railroad rates for service, but none to regulate operating cost, wages included.

The following editorial from the New York Mail is to the point: "It seems to us that the railroad wage controversy is another example of government inefficiency and overbalance in one direction and that the controversy is one-sided. When the railroads seek to increase their return for service in order to meet the higher cost of wages and materials, the Interstate Commerce Commission sits for months taking testimony, most of which is from shippers and against increase. The decision of the Commission is made after careful calculation and digestion of many angled evidence, concerning the ability of the economic consequences of taxing the man who pays the freight a little more in order that the transportation industry may thrive and the millions who live by it directly or indirectly, obtain steady work and fair wages.

"Why should not this sort of investigation obtain when wages are in dispute? There ought to be some scientific effort made in the one instance as in the other to arrive at a fair conclusion and one not based on political exigencies or the inevitable dissipation of a well defined program into a feeble and temporizing compromise."

The Staked Plains of Texas and New Mexico without railroads would still today be in grass, at best supporting fifty head of cattle to the square mile. Real development is just getting fairly under way. Every man, woman and child is directly interested in the welfare of the means of transportation and its influence on development. Shall this be hampered by higher rates or curtailed service? The public has a right to be heard.

A. M. HOVE

Author "Peck's Bad Boy" Dies
Milwaukee, April 13.—George W. Peck, 77 years old, former governor of Wisconsin for two terms and at one time Mayor of Milwaukee died here today after a short illness.

Peck was one of three Democrats who since the admission of Wisconsin into the Union in 1848 held the position of governor.

Before his entry into public life Peck achieved national fame as a writer of humorous tales, his best known book being "Peck's Bad Boy." He was the publisher of Peck's Sun.

Mr. Peck was an enthusiastic fisherman and hunter and made annual winter fishing trips to Texas.

We still believe Carranza would have supported the United States in running down Villa had he not lost control over his people.

Carranza wants to say now that he didn't consent for the American troops to enter Mexico.
